The 18th International Annual Congress of the Cameroon Bioscience Society will take place at the University of Douala from December 1st - 3rd, 2011.

The theme of the conference is "Biosciences and Millennium Development Goals".

Since 1988, these meetings have been organized annually to stimulate cooperation among scientists for the advancement of research and development.
The theme "Biosciences and Millennium Development Goals" will bring together academicians and non academicians on actual challenges in developing countries.

The conference sub-themes will focus the eight Millennium Development Goals, which mostly concern health , environment and education.

1- Nutrition / food Sciences
2- Biotechnology and agropastoral development
3- Environment and management of the ecosystems
4- Fight against diseases and socioeconomic development
5- Biosciences and human Health
6- Biosciences and interdisciplinary

We look forward to seeing you in December 2011!
